“I am excited about the opportunity to be a part of the nationally renowned and award-winning Ohio Oil and Gas Energy Education Program and its mission of educating both today’s students and the general public about the oil and gas industry in Ohio. It is important to tell the story about the efforts of the oil and gas producers in their quest to produce essential energy safely and efficiently for consumers.”

John and his wife of 40 years, Debbie, now reside in Delaware, Ohio after raising their three now adult children, Bethany, Trey and Miles, in Fayette County, Ohio.
